

The Review Cube

Use the Review Cube after any activity to help children articulate their thoughts and feelings. Reflection is a powerful tool to help solidify the learning as well as encouraging children (and facilitators) to think about future sessions.

Gather the group together in plenty of time before the end of the session. Ask the children to think about their session / activity and introduce the cube as a helpful starting point if they can't think of anything to say immediately. They may already have things they are keen to share which is great.

The children can roll the cube and start their reflection on whatever word the cube lands on or they can look around the cube to find the word that suits what they would like to say.

The facilitator can help use the words on the cube as a prompt, here are some examples:

- What was best about today's session?
- What did you find the most challenging part?
- What did you learn?
- What did you feel?
- What are you thankful for?
- What would you like to do next time? / What might you do differently next time?

Don't feel limited to these examples, there are lots of different ways in which the review cube can be used and the words interpreted. Remember, this is just a starting point to get the reflection process going.
